LESS AMERICANS TO CANADA.

Report Shows Decrease of Such Immigration to Dominion.

Immigration figures for the first three months of the fiscal year just ended at Ottawa, Ont., show an increase of British and European immigrants over the same period last year and a heavy decrease in immigration from the United States.

American settlers entering Canada during the first quarter this year numbered 44,906, as against 53,343 in the same period last year. Total arrivals were 210,220, as against 175,346 in the same period last year. Of these 24,308 came from Great Britain, an increase of 15,000. The government estimates that the American settlers brought with them in cash and effects upward of $67,000,000.

SHIRTS RUE SLIT TROUSERS.

First Man to Wear Them is Killed by Newsboys.

A martyr to fashion, W. Leffingwell Doak, a member of the north side gentility of Pittsburgh, was mobbed by a gang of newsboys in that city. Doak was the first wearer of the prophesied slit trousers.

When the boys saw the innovation they gathered about Doak, voicing uncompromising criticisms. Finally they began to jostle him and kick him in the shins. At sight of a policeman they scattered.

Doak's trousers of a light check material, the slit extending from the bottom outside to about six inches from the knee. Bright green hosiery of the length women wear were disclosed.

INVENTS TIPPING SYSTEM.

Banker Opens Account For Waitress Who Serves Him Daily.

Leo Moser, a St. Louis banker, has contrived himself that he has worked out the ideal tipping system.

Mr. Moser, who is young and good looking, thought he was so well taken care of by a young woman who waited on him in his favorite luncheon room that he obtained her name and went to the savings department of a trust company and opened a dollar account in her name. He kept patronizing the cafe, and now he and the girl with the savings account could wait on him.

He never offered her with a tip, but when he feels that the service is especially good a deposit goes to the credit of the waitress.

How to Be an Inventor.

A retired professor of mechanical engineering was called upon to deliver a few lectures on invention to the senior engineering classes. His first injunction was that when one attempts to devise a machine to do a certain thing, one must consider directly the fundamental operations to be performed and must wipe from the mind all existing methods and all preconceived notions. He stated that one so called inventor attempted in the days of the scribble to invent a mowing machine. Being familiar only with the scythe, he designed a horse drawn machine which would swing a scythe. He simply replaced the man by a mechanism. It is needless to say that his invention did not survive. The problem of efficiently cutting hay and grain was not successfully solved until it was attacked by a man with an open mind, and he devised the knife of the modern mowing machine of reaper.—American Machinist.

Apply Your Knowledge.

"A college education is worth $25,000 in increased earning capacity," declares a western university. It is, and it isn't. There are college men who could not earn this sum in twenty-five years. There are men earning twice as much in a year who never even attended a college. It's a fine thing to have, but its earning capacity depends upon the practical use made of it, says the wise man in Power.

CHILD BROKE OUT IN MILK RASH

On Face and Arms. Started in Little Red Blotches. Would Form White Heads and Break. Face in Awful Condition. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. In a Week's Time Completely Well.

145 Water St., West Newton, Pa.—"My baby boy was but three weeks old when his little face and arms broke out in what they called milk rash. It started at first in little red blotches and then would form white heads and break. They caused an itching and the baby was very cross at times. It had his little face in an awful condition for about two weeks.

"I tried several things for it but they did no good. I got Cuticura Soap and Ointment and bathed him in lukewarm water and the Cuticura Soap and then applied the Cuticura Ointment. I had only used them about three days when I noticed a big change in the rash. Inside of a week's time it was completely well." (Signed) Mrs. O. R. Lindsay, May 2, 1913.

Although the Cuticura Soap and Ointment are most successful in the treatment of affections of the skin, scalp, hair and hands, they are also most valuable for everyday use in the toilet, bath and nursery because they promote and maintain the health of the skin and hair from infancy to age. Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment sold everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 22-p. Skin Book. Address postpaid "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston, Mass."

200 Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will testify that for skin and scalp.

COMFORTING WORDS.

Many a Connelville Household Will Find Them So.

To have the pains and aches of a bad back removed—to be entirely free from annoying, dangerous urinary diseases, is enough to make any kidney sufferer grateful. The following advice of one who has suffered will prove comforting words to hundreds of Connelville readers.

F. M. Beach, 219 E. Fairview Ave., Connelville, Pa., says: "I suffered from rheumatic pain and lameness across my back, and the passages of the kidney secretions were irregular. Doan's Kidney Pills acted promptly and the relief was permanent. This remedy has been used by others of our family for backache and kidney trouble with good results. I have recommended Doan's Kidney Pills often, and in each case that has come to my knowledge where they have been used, the result has always been prompt relief."

Newspaper Comment on Redpath Chautauquas

From Towns Where These Chautauquas Were Held Last Year.

The Huntington, Ind., Herald said: "General consensus in Huntington is that the chautauqua has been of great benefit both educationally and as an entertainment."

The Niles, Mich., Daily Sun says: "It requires no words of ours to add to the volume of praise for the great chautauqua even-day course. Its value to the community as an educational and moral force cannot be measured in dollars and cents."

The Crawfordsville, Ind., Journal: "A canvass was made of the business portion of the city to-day, in which a large number of people competent to judge were asked their opinion of the chautauqua. Without exception, those interviewed said it was great."

The Maysville, Ky., Daily Independent: "The people of Maysville who have had a touch of the chautauqua this year have surely enjoyed it. Some of the lecturers alone were worth the price of a season ticket."

The Vincennes, Ind., Commercial: "This year's program has been wonderful."

The Kendallville, Ind., News-Sun: "Everyone is looking forward to next summer's week of pleasure."

The Goshen, Ind., News-Times: "The chautauqua is proving a great success and promises to become a permanent institution in Goshen. It furnishes good wholesome entertainment and is a great educational and uplifting influence in the community."

Worth Reading.

On the editorial page of The Ladies Home Journal for September is an article that ought to be read carefully by every woman. In fact there is not a man living that could not profit by carefully reading this article.

It is an article about "the woman who buys where she can buy the cheapest," and it will be worth many times the 15c the Journal will cost you to buy a copy if you do not have one, and read it.

For almost 40 years this store has been trying to tell you the truth that this article so well conveys—for in all this time this store has been in existence we have kept the fact before you that this store was not a cheap store—one that put price before quality; that it was not a store that sells anything it could, and that it was not a store that lived on the gullibility of the people, always promising something for nothing. We have done business on the principle that there was in this community a fair number of people who were willing to pay a reasonable price for a good article. We call particular attention to this Editorial because it shows better than anything else we have ever read the real reason for the present high cost of living; also, because it shows the woman or man who wants to practice economy the right way to do so. All over the country women and men are honestly trying to be economical and think they are really doing so, when in fact they are almost pendthrifts.

REASONABLE RESTRAINT.
What is reasonable restraint of trade? This question, says Financial America, is one that has been puzzling business for years and there does not seem to be any hope of its immediate solution. That the officers of the government who are charged with putting an end to "unreasonable restraint" do not know what it is themselves has been emphasized by recent happenings and was brought to prominent notice by the letter of Senator Hoar of which Judge Gray referred in his testimony a few days ago.

When the Sherman anti-trust act was passed corporation heads who were anxious to observe the law naturally desired to be informed as to its precise meaning. The steel interests, it now appears, appealed at that time to a senator who was credited with having played a prominent part in drawing up the measure and who might therefore be presumed to be aware of its meaning and intent. In Senator Hoar's letter, in reply to the request for information, however, he intimated that the forming of pools, such as then were common in the steel industry, was not in violation of the law. The steel interests acted on this advice only to find out later that they were incurring the displeasure of the government by so doing.

Three pools were abandoned early in the present century, but that did not seem to have counted for much.
When the City of Toledo and Trusts were dissolved, their violation of the law, it was claimed, lay in the fact that they oppressed smaller competitors, forced them out of business by price cutting. This, then, it was thought, constituted unreasonable restraint, but that the conclusion was hasty was shown by the subsequent prosecution of the United States Steel Corporation, whose policy towards its smaller brethren was such that, as proved by trade statistics, the latter flourished and increased during its existence.

Business men, therefore, find themselves confronted with the puzzle aforementioned. Indeed, between the bitter competition on the one hand and a fair and open policy towards competitors on the other, there does not appear to be any middle course, and with both these frowned on by the federal authority, it would appear to be impossible to carry on big business without violating the law.

Technically, of course, restraint necessarily exists in nearly every transaction of industry or commerce.
The man who sells a commodity at a price lower than is being sold elsewhere is underbidding his competitor and taking away his trade, and is therefore guilty, while he who sells at the same price may be charged with collusion to maintain prices. This reductio ad absurdum, it seems to us, proves what is laid out in Senator Hoar's letter, that the spirit of the Sherman act was that its framers meant should be served, and this would mean that common morality in business dealings should be sufficient assurance to any citizen or interest that the spirit of the statute is being observed.

FINE FEATHERS; FINE BIRDS.
Philadelphia Public Ledger.

There are women—and men, too—who think they can blind the rest of us to their shortcomings by employing the bureau upon their persons. They know they can attract attention in no other way, and so they strive to make the loudest appeal they can by means of their apparel. Comparatively few women will stoop to conquer by possitive immodesty, but there are a many who are not averse to a vulgar display. The best of women dress quietly, soberly, unobtrusively. They are not bedazzled with jewelry or kaleidoscopic with cosmetics, and when they are shopping they do not wear frills appropriate for an afternoon reception or a ball.

Behold the cellophane woman, how she shines resplendent in her color symphony, putting Solomon and the Sidditee alike to the blush! Her handkerchief and her footgear, her neckwear and her shirt harmonize like a string quartet. What an indignity, almost the world makes inquiry as to this young sybarite's intellectual furniture!
It were too much to demand beauty within and without—both visual and spiritual pulchritude. Yet, somehow, this horn-handed world has use, not for its human peacocks and its birds of paradise, but for those who, in color raiment and a chastened spirit, day after day are engaged in a humble and faithful ministry to its plain and simple needs. A man is born to a higher destiny than to be a tailor's summit.

NEWS OF A DAY AS GATHERED UP ABOUT SCOTSDALE

The United Brethren Church Holds Its Last Quarterly Conference.

READY FOR THIS COMING YEAR

Delegates and Alternates Elected to Attend the Conference in Greenburg; Local Men Impressed With Ohio City; Other Notes of News.

Special to The Courier.
SCOTSDALE, Aug. 22.—The last quarterly conference of the First United Brethren Church of Scottdale, of which Rev. C. W. Hendrickson is the pastor, was held at that church with Rev. J. F. Fulton, conference superintendent of Johnstown, presiding.
Important work of the conference was the election of the delegates and alternates who will represent the local congregation when the conference meets in Greenburg. Thomas N. Brownfield was chosen the delegate and Walter H. Stoner the alternate to represent the local people, many of whom will be in attendance at the conference when it is held at such an early reached sitting place as Greenburg. Another important matter was the election of the board of trustees for the ensuing conference year. Those chosen were Albert Keister, D. L.
Sherrick, Charles L. Craft, J. N.
Stoner and Daniel W. Shupe. Harry P. Kelly was elected general steward, Albert Keister, church treasurer, and J. B. Hutchinson, church clerk.
The local congregation is now busily engaged in the building of a new parsonage on the church lot. The building will be of brick and of handsome design. The present parsonage, which is connected with the church building, will probably be turned into Sunday School rooms as there is need for large accommodations for the growing Sunday school.

PIKE PHIT.
Mrs. Mary Ann Porter, of a mile west of town, was the recipient of about a half peck of the finest plums, big golden ones, ever seen in this locality, and also some peaches that were equal to the dreams of a nurseryman's most ardent and optimistic entourage. The fruit came from Mrs. Porter's daughter, Mrs.
B. F. Glover of Waynesburg, Missouri, and their journey was made under the auspices of parcel post, in a tin box.
The fruit was fresh and perfect after its extensive trip.

A HEAVY RAIN.
Darkness covered the sky about 3 o'clock Friday evening and for a time it was so black that the lights were all turned on, and the chickens hurried to bed. There was a tremendous rain that filled the streets with flood, washing the thoroughly. No damage was done.

GIRLS AT ROSHDALE.
A merry party of girls from Pittsburg are visiting at Roshdale Farm at Pottsville. Included in the party are Misses Emma Reed, Margaret Kuhlman, Hattie Kuhlman, Marie Kuhlman, Josephine Lackner, Eleanor Lackner, Margaret Conway, Branch Otto.

AT JACOBS CREEK.
Rev. Albert Dick of the Methodist Episcopal Church of Oberlin, Kansas, will preach at the Jacobs Creek Methodist Episcopal Church on Sunday evening. Reverend Dick is a former Scottdale boy, who came here to attend the funeral of his brother, Walter, of Greensburg, and has since been visiting with Arthur J. Porter and other friends about this locality.

UNION SERVICES.
Rev. C. W. Hendrickson, pastor of the United Brethren Church, will be the preacher at the union church services which will be held Sunday evening at the Christian Church at 7:30 o'clock.

SPLINT REMOVED.
The splints were removed from the arm of Joseph Pool on Friday. Mr.
Pool is a well known and popular young mill worker who had the misfortune to have his leg broken last year while at work and then this year an arm, about two years ago.

AT REUNION.
Among those from this place who attended the Newcomer reunion at Shady Grove Park were Miss Amanda Newcomer, Miss Laura Newcomer, Miss Ada Loucks, Miss Grace Loucks, Harry Newcomer, Mrs. Nancy Crossland Barnhart and J. A. Barnhart.

FOOT CRUSHED.
Harry Rice, the well known teamster, is able to be about on crutches after suffering the crushing of his right foot by a wagon running over it several days ago.

TO LIGONIER.
Mrs. A. L. Rosensteel has gone to Ligonier to visit for a few days with Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Turner who have a cottage in the Ligonier valley.

IN RECOVERING.
John Loucks, a prominent farmer, is slowly recovering from having been knocked from a load of hay when the rope attached to a hay fork lifting a heavy bunch of hay broke. Mr. Loucks was thrown down from the wagon and one shoulder struck a post, dislocating the shoulder.

HOME FROM OHIO.
J. C. Porter, one of the milk men of this locality, arrived home on Friday evening from Akron, O. where he had been since Tuesday, accompanied by his little daughter, Ruth. They were visiting with Mr. Porter's brother-in-law, Clarence W. McBeth, who has been in the grocery business in the Ohio city for some time. Mr.
Porter enjoyed the trip greatly and one of the things that impressed him most was the visit to O. C. Barber's over 100 high grade cows, in really palatial barns, each with having an electric fan, and the cows having grooves who take care of them in first class shape. The milk from the Barber farm, Mr. Porter says, brings five cents more a quart than the product of other places. A curb market was another interesting sight. Mr.

Porter says that at 3 o'clock in the morning the hucksters and fruit growers drive into the city and line up on one of the streets while the grocers and marketmen go to buy their stuff. He says that never at a county fair has he seen fruit to equal that brought in from the farms around Akron.

AT GIFTYSBURG.
Dr. and Mrs. James P. Strickler have been spending several days on an automobile trip to the interesting

FAST GAME PROMISED

Cokers and Independents Will Clash at Payette Field.

The game between the Cokers and the Connellsville Independents at Payette field this afternoon promises plenty of excitement. The Independents have openly boasted of their superiority over Slicks men, and the old fox will endeavor to show the youngsters how high class ball was played when he was one of the outstanding pitchers in the minor leagues.
The Independents, however, have some reason to boast. Their lineup includes some of the best amateur players in town, and they have won all with the exception of one game played this season. Members of the club include Adida, J. F. A. Friel, Walton, Courtney, Fisher and Art King. The latter's work for the Cok-ers in last Saturday's game with Uniontown was one of the bright spots in the contest.

The game will commence promptly at 3:30 o'clock, and a large attendance is anticipated.

SEER STOLEN AUTO.

Braddock Man Believes His Car May Be in This Vicinity.

A blue-black automobile, a seven-passenger Marmon, is believed to be in this vicinity, and a reward of $200 for its return is offered by the car's owner, a resident of Braddock.

According to a communication received today by Acting Chief of Police Thomas McDonald, the machine was stolen from the owner's garage a few nights ago by two negroes and a white man. They are believed to have made their way to this section, and the Connellsville police have been requested to be on the lookout for them. The car's number is 1,212,043.

A STORY OF NEW FALL FASHIONS FOR WOMEN

Being little more than a brief exposition of this store's early preparedness and some advance information on a subject in which many women are naturally interested. A few words touching lightly on various articles of women's outer apparel.

You are welcome to come to our spacious second floor and acquaint yourself more thoroughly with the beautiful things this new season holds in store for those who wish to avail themselves of the earnest efforts of this Style-Supreme Store in behalf of its large and ever increasing clientele.

The New Suits

The coats take varying lengths, all, however, being longer than those of the past season, and the extra-way feature is prominent in many. The skirts are tailored along simple lines, graceful, clinging and close, some showing draped effects in their trimming. The materials are plain, rough and fancy weaves, and the colorings are very pleasing.

Priced at $18.75 and up.

The New Coats

In the three-quarter, seven-eighths and even full lengths, and showing all the grace and beauty of figure that these lengths will permit. The collars, sleeves and cuffs of these coats show many new features of cut and trimmings. The materials include plain and cut wool velours and chenille cloths and various pile fabrics.

The woman planning a summer tour, mountain or seashore trip will surely be interested in new coats

The New Dresses

Deserve perhaps the most earnest consideration. The variety and extent of the new frock excel any similar showing here at this advanced date.

For street and afternoon wear crepe de chine, meteor, poplin and crinkled crepe, also charmeuse and silk eponge, will be worn. Fascinatingly becoming in their new and charming lines, their graceful drappings, their waist and collar ruchings and dainty vests. Blue in many striking shades is fashionable, also browns, greens, gray, rose and taupe, also to be considered. Black is as popular as ever.

The Fourth International Congress on School Hygiene at Buffalo and what it hopes to accomplish.

THE Fourth International Congress on School Hygiene which convenes in Buffalo from the 28th to the 30th of August, is bringing together 3,000 of the world's greatest educators and health experts who will unite in one grand crusade to promote sound bodies for the school children of the world.

The Congress and its aims are of such magnitude, and the work it will inaugurate has so many ramifications, that it is almost impossible to give an adequate impression of its immense importance and size within the brief confines of a newspaper article.

Primarily the Congress will bring together the leading men and women of the world who are interested in the health of children; it will organize a program of papers and discussions covering the field of school hygiene; it will assemble scientific and commercial exhibits of practical and educational value to school people, and it will publish, for scattering broadcast, the many important results of its deliberations.

In the old days the child which seemed unable to master its lessons was given a perch on the dunce's stool, and the blotch rod was often resorted to as the most successful stimulus for a lagging brain. In these days of more scientific educational method the backward child is given a medical examination and a set of well filled teeth or pair of properly fitted eye-glasses are often found to work far more good than an application of the flickery switch. No child can properly study its lessons if its eyesight is defective and an aching tooth will take the mind of even the most conscientious child from its lessons. All children have retentive minds. When the mind of a little one refuses to work it is the sign of a physical defect. To remedy this defect will make able men and women of thousands who under the old method would grow up dullards. To set in motion a propaganda which will spread this scientific method of education to every city and hamlet of the civilized world is part of the work of the Fourth International Congress on School Hygiene.

Sound Bodies for School Children To Be Made A World Wagon.

To properly go on with his school work a child must possess a sound mind in a sound body. That American educators appreciate this is found in the fact that in some half a hundred cities of the United States the teeth of all the school children are examined by city dentists every year. In almost any city of any size there are punny lunches where thousands of children who used to attend the afternoon sessions hungry, now are fed. It is no longer considered sufficient to provide a school yard where the children may romp. The cities of America provide scientifically equipped playgrounds where competent instructors give them the proper exercises to successfully develop their bodies. One of the interesting instructions in the lower classes is the toothbrush drill, where the youngsters are taught the importance and method of cleaning their molars and bluepads.

further this kind of work, to extend it in a hundred useful variations and to give it an impetus that will send it to every nook and cranny of this old world is one of the principal aims of the Congress.

Few people realize the immense field that there is open for the work of a Congress of this kind. Dr. Thomas D. Wood, in a report to the National Education Association, says that of the 20,000,000 pupils attending school in the United States today there are probably about 1,000,000 who have spinal curvature, flat foot or some other moderate deformity sufficient to interfere with their school work. About one million have defective hearing about 5,000,000 have defective vision, about 5,000,000 are suffering from malnutrition, more than 5,000,000 have enlarged tonsils or one of the kindred diseases and more than 10,000,000 have teeth sufficiently bad to interfere with their school work. When these figures are taken together with the fact that the medical inspection in most communities is either a farce or a myth it can be seen that some such movement like the International Congress on School Hygiene is needed. There are in the United States 1,255 cities with organized systems of graded public schools under superintendents. Reports to the New York State Foundation show that only 443 or not quite 43 per cent have regular medical inspection. Of these, in only 214 is there a complete physical examination by physicians.

It is to help remedy these conditions that the Congress will devote its best energies. The special discussions by experts will take up School Feeding, Oral Hygiene, Sex Hygiene, Conservation of Vision in School Children, Health Supervision of Students, School Illumination, Relation Between Physical Education and School Hygiene, Tuberculosis Among School Children, Physical Education and College Hygiene, The Blind-Sighted Test and the Mentally Defective Child, and other kindred subjects.

One Of The Most Remarkable Bodies Of Child Labor Ever Gathered.

The coming Congress is the fourth to be held. The first was held at Nuremberg in 1904, the second at London in 1907, and the third at Paris in 1910. This fourth in Buffalo, N. Y., will be the most successful of any yet held. In hundreds of cities and villages all over the country, local organizations have planned to send delegates. Some of these will be appointed by the Governors of States, and others by the Mayors of cities. Others will come as the official representatives of school boards, mothers' congresses, boards of health, boards of trade, charity organizations, and all kinds of women's clubs and philanthropic organizations. These delegates will rub shoulders with some of the most eminent educators in the United States and Europe, with special representatives from all of the crowned heads of the Old World, and with municipal health officers from almost every city of any size anywhere.

That the Congress will bring together a remarkable assemblage of men and women of note goes without saying. Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard, will preside. The vice-presidents will be Dr.

William H. Welch, professor of pathology at John Hopkins University, and Dr. Henry P. Walcott, chairman of the Massachusetts Board of Health. The honorary vice-presidents will include His Eminence James Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishop of Baltimore, Dr. Woods Hutchinson, representing the National Educational Association and fifteen others of equal standing. Among the regular accredited delegates will be the governor-general of Canada, and there are to be over 300 papers by speakers of note. The speakers include practically all of the leading educators, physicians, and scientists of the day from all parts of the world. The Congress will hold its meetings in sections, the members attending those at which will be read the papers in which they are most interested.

Thirty College Presidents And 250 Other Celebrities To Address The Congress.

Among the 300 speakers will be 30 presidents of well known colleges in the United States and Europe, many state, city and county officials, educators from all over the world, physicians in private practice, dentists, engineers, architects.

Some idea of the scope of this international movement for the improvement of school hygiene can be gained when it is said that on the permanent International Committee of Arrangements Austria has eight members, Belgium three, Bulgaria two, Canada two, Denmark three, England eleven, France eight, Germany five, Greece two, Hungary three, Italy four, Japan four, Mexico two, The Grand Duchy of Luxembourg two, Netherlands four, Norway two, Portugal three, Roumania one, Russia three, Servia one, Spain three, Sweden three, Switzerland three, and the United States seven.

During the progress of the convention there will be a great pageant by the school children of Buffalo, a series of games to demonstrate what Buffalo is doing for the bodily health of her children, and demonstrations by school children from other parts of the country.

Earnest and intelligent efforts for reaching the women of America will be discussed, because it is still realized that despite the enlargement of woman's sphere and the growth of the suffrage movement it is still true that the hand that rocks the cradle is the hand that controls the destiny of future generations. In this connection the Congress will discuss the school children as the carriers of disease. The schools should be so surrounded by scientific protection that instead of breeding places of disease they will become the recognized places where children are freed from contagion. This can only be accomplished by the earnest co-operation of the parents—especially the mothers. It has already happened, in places where medical inspection is thorough, that in cases of serious epidemic the schools have been opened, instead of being closed, the children being considered safer from contagion there than in the street.

School feeding is another vexed question that comes directly in the woman's realm. Properly fed children are many per cent more efficient in their work, than those bodies that are not sufficiently nourished. There is no better way to teach the children the value of good food, than in the cooking classes themselves. And to do this the children need the co-operation of their parents for experimental work in mother's kitchen at home.

The Congress will also discuss, just what portion of sex hygiene can be taught with safety; what it is desirable to teach on the use of tobacco; on impure milk, etc., etc. The Congress will also take up mental hygiene, recognizing that the largest factor in the health of human being is mental vigor and purity.

Newport's MOTOR MAIDS

Miss Elizabeth Standley (Driving Car) and Miss Mimi Scott

Dame Fashion decrees that the young women of the exclusive Rhode Island resort drive their own cars.

NEWPORT is ever alert for a new sensation, a new thrill or a new scandal. The school or sensation falling, the fashionables of this most ultra fashionable resort turn their attention to novel pastimes and when their imaginations begin to grow weary in the search for something bizarre, they sometimes steer a middle course and alight upon something both harmless and invigorating. This season it happens that the "motor maid" is the swiftest young woman at this swagging watering place, and the young woman who does not own and steer her own motor car, whether it be electrically or "petrol" propelled, is indeed out of the running and not nearly so ardently courted by the condescending glided youth there sojourning as she who can nonchalantly invite any and everybody she chooses to share her runabout for a drive along the boulevard.

But the motor maid is in her element at Newport this summer. In the best place she finds that she is one of half a hundred extremely fortunate young women who, while in their car with an escort in the person of that particular glided youth she wishes to write upon, for once in her gay young life can dispense with the protecting wing of the chaperone who ordinarily haunts her by day and by night. For in "It" remember those budding debutantes who make Newport their summer home are rarely allowed out of the sight of an eagle-eyed Mamma, or Auntie, who only retreats at that physiological moment when she thinks the bud has bud that particular glided youth, who has the family's approval, to the point of laying his heart and millions at the feet of the one he loves. So this unaccustomed abandon and freedom, permitted by reason of the motor car craze, one can readily understand has proved a boon—and a boon to young woman who from her pin money can purchase a car of her own choosing is likely to overlook.

Motor Maids Are Popular.

But seriously Newport's motor maids are most attractive. Of course, costumes are everything at Newport and the fair and exquisitely gowned girls who flock to the Casino never showed to better advantage than they have this season, and all because of hours for these lotus-like drives and one is just apt to see scores of pretty little cars, with a girl at the wheel, in the morning as in the afternoon.

Only a few years ago Bellevue Avenue was world-famous for its magnificent equipages. Turn out that were faultless as to horse, carriage, coachman, footman, liveries and all other appurtenances, gave way for a while to the more roomy and pretentious automobile—limousines, landaus and touring cars. But this year there has been a decided turn in the tide of favor to the horse-drawn vehicle with its more stately appointments. That means another lavish display of toilettes, for all will agree, though for some unexplainable reason, Madam always deems it necessary to bedeck herself more gorgeously for a drive in her faultless carriage than she is wont to do when she enters her motor car.

Automobiles still exist by the hundreds at Newport, but the driving hour—late in the afternoon—sees far more horse-drawn equipages than the honking-dust-showering motor cars. Just who is responsible for the letting down of the bars of convention for the motor maid has not been determined. Some say that it was the decree of Mrs. Ruyvenant Fish, the acknowledged leader of Newport, that such a leveling of the conventions was possible. Of course, no mother with a marriageable daughter would have dreamed of taking such a shockingly radical step without first consulting her social motor—and Mrs. Fish is unquestionably the motor of all who open their villas—self-owned or rented—at this swagging resort. A bowl along the boulevards is sure to result in a glimpse of Elizabeth Sands as she steers her natty little car over the smooth and even roads of the resort. Chances are she will have some young blade at her side who can count his wealth in seven figures. Then again, should she not be in a mood to load an ear to the whippersnappers of the one who "wows," she is quite likely to have at her side her dearest girl chum—Miss Scott, who also owns and drives a car, yet is over ready to leave it in the garage. If a drive with Elizabeth is possible, these two young women are expert drivers and while they do not drive those mountainous and heavy cars which, when a tire blows out requires half a day's hard labor to adjust it, yet in case of emergency either is capable of getting down beneath the car and adjusting any part that might become disarranged. So closely have they studied the art of motoring that they have long since passed that stage where a smudge of grease across their fair young faces would cause them one portion of embarrassment, for they are recognized as experts and this can only come to them through the hard knocks and amusements of actual experience.

Miss Natalie Willard

Miss Harger A Good Driver.

Another pair frequently seen together when beaux have been relegated to the discard are Miss Edna Harger and Miss Esther Moreland. Here is another instance of where both young women own and run cars of their own, yet each is willing to sacrifice an afternoon, or morning at the wheel in favor of the other; Miss Harger is known as one of the most fearless drivers at Newport and she is rarely seen humming along that she is not away beyond or just inside of the speed limit. Both are extremely attractive and each has numerous admirers, any one of whom would eagerly jump at an opportunity to be driven by her about the resort.

A strange feature of this motor craze among the girls is the effect it has upon the young men. Hereafter a girl's chances for success in the social campaign could only be judged by the number of young men she had trailing at her elbow. The more the merrier, it seemed, until it reached that stage where only one was desired and permitted to be her cavalier. Nowadays it appears that positions are exactly reversed and the young man is the one who is courted. Proud, indeed, is he who can be in a position to tell a fair young claimant for his escort during an afternoon drive that he extremely regrets to say that he has a previous engagement. "For I am to drive with Miss So and So." And it is done every day. These young blades are as jealous of their engagement book's notations as any young debutante of her dance card at her first ball. They talk about the continual round of drives, dinners, dances, etc., with all the usual of bistro old campaigns and had form as it may seem to you or me, they compare notes and speak of it all as "a stupor!" Yet they are continually asked to drive, dine or dance and their engagement book, if a glance into its golden covers were permissible, will tell you that they rarely have an idle moment.

Miss Willard Prefers Solitude.

There is one young woman at Newport who seemingly loves solitude. For more often than not she can be seen driving about town, or through shaded country lanes all alone, stretching her car to its utmost speed capacity and apparently enjoying every minute of her exhilarating spin. Natalie Willard is the young woman in question and just why she is alone so much none can guess for she is every bit as attractive as the most popular of her friends, furthermore, there is not a young man at the resort who would not willingly break a previous engagement, where possible, to accept a seat at her side. Miss Willard is an expert motorist and she frequently takes out a big touring car which she loads to the gunwale with her young friends and starts forth on long runs that often reach the century mark. Evidently she prefers a party to a lone companion for she can always command either and at a second's notice.

Miss Gene Wallach is a good driver and owns a fetching little car which can frequently be seen speeding along over the roads in and about Newport. Girl friends and men alike eagerly seek the opportunity to drive with her, for she is immensely popular and an expert driver. She is the originator of the "club runs" whereby all the girls owning cars invite some one to accompany them and a long run is made to some neighboring resort for either breakfast or luncheon. Moonlight drives, too, are popular but on these occasions, rest assured, an argus-eyed chaperone is either in a car of her own or else some one of the girls has constituted herself good Samaritan to the others and proffered the seat in her car to this very energetic delegate of Mother Grand.

RULING OVER PAY MAKES ELECTION OFFICERS MAD

General Disatisfaction Over Arrangements for Resignation of a Member.

It looks as if there will be a general strike of the election boards of the state following the decision of the attorney general that only election officers elected or appointed since the act approved June 2 of this year can draw the increased pay. Election officers everywhere have expressed themselves badly that no more will they go through the intricate procedure of a primary election at laborer's wages, although they admit it is labor all right.

The attorney general's decision does not in the form reported from Harrisburg make things clear, except that the boards don't get an increase. The law is applied to primaries as well as to general elections. The old practice was to pay for the primary, for one-half of the wages paid for holding a general election or $1.75 for the primary. The question naturally arises, taking the attorney general's decision, as reported yesterday as to whether the rate of one-half applied to this and if the officers receive one-half of the new salary or $2.50 for the primary or one-half of the old wage or $1.75. This cannot be apparently as the primary pay for the primary hereafter is to be $6 a day, it is understood.

The primary day has been increased from 1 in the morning to 7 in the evening while previously it was from 2 o'clock in the afternoon to 5 at night. The day therefore has been increased to the election officers by six hours, just double the time before.

The attorney general can find plenty of excuse for deciding that the hours can be increased for the election officers already in office, but can't find anything to allow the increase of payment. "It has been the hardest thing in the world to get election boards to either ever since the new primary laws came into effect, for it takes a fraction or self-sacrifice to be on duty for the day and then receive only $1.75 the next morning for $1.75. The primary is far worse than the general election, for there are so many matters to fill out, each party having its own election and returns. Now, they want us to spend six hours more and get just the old rate of wages, because we have been doing this before and sacrificing ourselves. With all the new laws a fellow ought to be ahead of the proverbial Philadelphia lawyer to be on an election board now."

There's one way that the difficulty could be overcome, and that is by an election officer resigning and the court appointing him on a petition. But it is safe to say that at a whole lot of places there will be no election

POLO.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old Slwash."

Polo is an ancient game which is played with great fury and elation by eight men on horseback. There are four men on each side in polo and usually two or three under foot. The object of the game is to drive a large wooden ball between the goal posts with the aid of a long handled mallet. To do this it is often necessary to travel over a large assortment of personal friends and polo ponies but this is all in the game. Goals count one, broken collar bones two and three hoof marks on an opponent count one point.

Polo was originally played in India, and for a long time was an English game, but in an evil moment some Americans were allowed to learn it. Because of this another English championship has passed over the Atlantic, and Englishmen come over to this country annually to take lessons in the art of steering a nimble-footed nag with one hand and nursing a humiliated ball towards the goal with the other. The late polo games in New York were a great success, something over 5,000 people rising to well cheerfully whenever an American rider got in front of an English officer and spotted his aim by getting hit on the leg.

Polo is a very exciting game but will never become popular with the masses except from a spectator's standpoint. This is because of the incidental expenses. Even the most durable polo pony only last a few rounds, a polo match and the man who aspires to become a great player and to be photographed for the society papers under a jockey cap with his mallet over his shoulder has to buy enough ponies to operate a small circus. When the English team came over to America it brought a load of ponies with it. But it did not take many of them home. What it needs for next year is another half-million dollars worth of ponies with better carburetors and more responsive steering gear.

Steering a nimble-footed nag with one hand and nursing a humiliated ball towards the goal with the other.

In America ponies are not considered exciting enough for polo and some players use automobiles instead. It is indeed an inspiring sight to see the plucky polo player extract the steering wheel from his watch-pocket after his machine has capsize, right his car and dash madly back into the fray. Polo is more fun than parachute jumping.

CONTRACT PLACED

Award on Syracuse Works; Bids in on Other Projects.

The McClintic-Marshall Construction Company has been awarded 1,800 tons of structural steel for a boiler plant for the Senat-Solvay company at Syracuse, N. Y. Bids are going in this week on the Navy Department at Washington, and on 2,500 tons for the Commercial Trust & Savings bank, Memphis, Tenn. Action on 900 tons for the New Haven, Conn., postoffice is delayed.

The Pennsylvania railroad has put a number of small bridges and has not yet decided 550 tons for a trackage at Baltimore. The Norfolk & Western is asking bids upon a power house. About 400 tons for bridges in Philadelphia to be erected jointly by the city and the Reading railroad are still pending. There are pending 1,000 tons for traction car barns at Vancouver, B. C.

The Perfect Corset Makes a Perfect Figure

So far as a foundation for a dress is concerned. If some women who are careless in such matters would discard the corset they are now wearing and substitute a

Gossard or a Redfern the result might surprise them beyond belief. These corsets, in their many styles, enhance ALL figures, and do it comfortably.

Redfern Corsets $2.98 for certain of the $5 and $6 models Saturday and Monday.

BANKING SERVICE

Believing that real banking service should consist of more than the mere handling of your money, the officers and directors of this Bank are continually planning additions to the service rendered our patrons. Among these, not the least is our monthly Report on Trade Conditions, which we are prepared to furnish to customers and non-customers, alike, without charge. We believe the regular reading of these reports will make any business man a better business man.

Autos at the Chautauquas

AUTOMOBILES are very much in evidence nowadays at nearly all Red-path Chautauquas, and people come from longer distances than they would if obliged to use horses and carriages. The upper illustration shows the autos about the Chautauque grounds near the tent at Goshen, Ind. The other picture shows a long string of autos lined up in front of the Chautauque at Plymouth, Ind. Both pictures were made in 1912.

RELIANCE RUBBER ROOFING

Here's roofing you don't have to paint or repair. Here's roofing made so uniformly good that the manufacturer guarantees ten years service, or more, without painting or repainting.
